Brief Sketches of Their Lives, Which Should Be An Inspiration to All; Opportunities In Portsmouth for the Hard-working, Conscientious Young Man Just As Good As Anywhere Else In The World

WALTER WILLIAM BAUER

Eleven years ago W. W. Bauer was teaching at the Union street school for $55.00 per month. Today he has built up an enviable business in the real estate, building and insurance fields, and is now secretary and manager of the Provident Saving and Loan Co.

Walter William Bauer was born in South Webster, Ohio, and came to Portsmouth 15 years ago after studying at Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio Universities. For three years after coming to this city Mr. Bauer taught school, but left that profession to take up the work of building homes. One of these, built under his direction, was selected as the "Most Beautiful Home," during Better Homes Week last summer. In October, 1917, Mr. Bauer decided to engage in the Real Estate business in connection with his building work. He opened an office in the First National Bank, although at that time he had but one piece of property listed for sale. He was named by the Common Pleas Court as one of the four building commissioners for Scioto County Children's Home.

Mr. Bauer is a member of the Second Presbyterian church and unmarried.

"Know what you want, and go after it," might be Mr. Bauer's business slogan. He believes that it will win success anywhere. He believes in Portsmouth because it is a growing town. "There are always opportunities where the man grows with the town," he says. "There are more varied possibilities in the small community than in the larger cities where the big businesses are all stabilized and settled," according to Mr. Bauer. He contends that the older, already successful business man should encourage the young man just starting in his chosen work and make him feel that there is a field for his particular line of endeavor.

Rivers and creeks in the Miami Valley near Dayton were at flood stage, and the weather bureau reported that the Scioto, Muskingum, Hocking Valley and Sandusky rivers either were at flood stage this morning or would overflow their banks at many places during the day. Muskingum was reported at flood stage at Coshocton and near flood stage at Zanesville.

Dublin, Ohio, about fourteen miles north of Columbus on the Scioto river, reported the greatest rainfall in the state. Two and thirty-one hundredths of an inch of rain fell during the past 24 hours, according to weather bureau reports.

Much damage was done to Fairfield county municipalities.

Bremen reported more than a dozen houses surrounded by water and families vacating. At Rushville, the flood water covered B. & O. tracks.

The Lancaster south side district was partially covered by water. The Twin Cities of Baltimore and Basil reported houses forced to vacate.

Mine Head
Saves Lives
Of Many Coal Miners

BLUEFIELD, W. VA., March 29.—(By the Associated Press)—The presence of mind of T. J. Dawson, who three weeks ago became superintendent of the Yukon-Peacemaker Coal Company, at Yukon, W. Va., today is credited with the saving of the lives of 125 miners in No. 1 mine yesterday, when an explosion claimed the lives of twenty-six men in number two mine. Only six of the men in number two mine escaped.

When the blast came Superintendent Dawson was near the entry leading between the two mines. Realizing what had happened, he rushed into number one to warn the men there. Some of these workers were injured when they were knocked down by the force of the explosion.

All the bodies of the victims were recovered last night from the mine which was the scene of a similar disaster in 1919, when eighteen lives were snuffed out. Rescue work was at first done by volunteer teams from nearby mines and later was in charge of the crew of the United States Bureau of Mines Rescue.

No plans for an investigation have yet been announced. Officials of the company and mine inspectors who have been in the mine since the blast, believe the explosion was caused by the lighting of three miners who took a short cut through an abandoned working to their places of work.

The decision of the President to relieve himself of embarrassment was not sudden. He came to the conclusion that the usefulness of Mr. Daugherty as Attorney General came to an end with the recent revelations but, out of deference to the wishes of party leaders and politicians, Mr. Coolidge felt obliged to give Mr. Daugherty a chance to be heard.

The pretext on which the resignation was requested was not long in coming. Mr. Daugherty furnished it himself by refusing to disclose the titles of his correspondence and the records of his Bureau. The Senate investigating committee demanded them. Mr. Daugherty asked the President's support in refusing to give up records declaring it would be "incompatible with the public interest." Mr. Coolidge said he could not decide such a question on the advice of a man who had a personal interest in suppressing certain documents. Although his insistence endeavoring to give the impression that he was not trying to "prejudice the issue" in the Daugherty controversy, Mr. Coolidge did make it clear that what had happened had made the Attorney General of little use to him in discharging the duties of the Presidency in which he had been serving.

STORM CAUSE OF HEAVY DAMAGE IN OHIO HOMES

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Following a rainfall of from 1.5 to 2.5 inches during the past twenty-four hours, rivers and streams in central Ohio were at flood stage today. Hundreds of acres of low lands were flooded and considerable property damage had been reported.

At no point however, was the situation reported as unusually serious, according to United States Weather Bureau here, which announced that the heavy rains were over, for the present at least.

Much colder weather was promised for tonight and tomorrow.

Versailles, Ohio, reported the highest water there since the big flood of 1913. More than a dozen families were rescued from their homes in boats, while many other families were required to take refuge in the second floors of their houses. Swan Creek at Versailles was from 10 to 12 feet over its banks this morning, and at points in the town the water has spread out one mile or so wide. Buck Creek at Springfield overflowed its banks and at 8:30 o'clock this morning causing the suspension of street car service in that city by flooding the power house of the traction company. At Springfield more than a score of homes were under water and police and firemen worked with boats to rescue the occupants.

Rivers and creeks in the Miami Valley near Dayton were at flood stage, and the weather bureau reported that the Scioto, Muskingum, Hocking Valley and Sandusky rivers either were at flood stage this morning or would overflow their banks at many places during the day. New Steamer Cincinnati To Pass Here Sunday Morning

The new steel steamer "Cincinnati," which is scheduled to leave Cincinnati at five o'clock this afternoon bound for Pittsburgh on her maiden voyage to the Study City, is due to pass Portsmouth about six o'clock Sunday morning on her way up the Ohio.

The boat will probably not halt here as no arrangement has been made for a stop here, according to Capt. W. D. Kinable, local wharfmaster, who stated that the first scheduled stop of the vessel is Huntington, W. Va. Sunday noon.

Hospital Payments Are Due

The Fourth Quarterly payment on the Hempstead Hospital Fund Subscription will be due April 1st. We earnestly urge everyone to meet said amount promptly. We ask those who can to pay their subscription in full as the construction work on the new building is moving along faster than expected and the money is needed to meet the estimates and payment of contractors. We will greatly appreciate your calling at the Security Bank with your payment or mail check payable to George D. Selby, Treasurer.

Tri-State Bible Students Convention in Session

At 2:30 this afternoon, the first session of the Tri-State Bible Students' Convention was called to order by W. P. Bailey, of this city. The Convention is being largely attended by local students and by delegates from Columbus, Marion, Chillicothe, Shawnee, Trenton, Ashland, Charleson, Huntington and other nearby points. All sessions will be held in the Public Library Auditorium.

The Convention was addressed by N. D. Edwards of this city and J. P. Mountz of Columbus this afternoon, and A. H. MacMillan will be the speaker tonight.

The speakers for Sunday's session are C. B. Shull of Columbus, Dr. W. H. Spring of this city and A. H. McMillan of Brooklyn.

death carried away Harry Reinhardt of 1625 Seventh street at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the prime of a useful life, which came to the world forty years ago next June 17. He passed away at Jackson, O., where he was taking treatment for a past two weeks from a specialist for stomach cancer with which he had been afflicted for about 15 months. For the past three months Mr. Reinhardt's condition had been known to be serious but news of his death will come as a cruel blow to many friends who had hoped that rest and the care of a specialist would result in improvement.

Mr. Reinhardt was born in Portsmith, the son of John N. and Mary Louise Reinhardt. The mother passed away about four years ago, but the father survives. His home is with his son-in-law, George W. Johnson, 1805 Robinson avenue.

The widow, who was Miss Catherine Gavett of Jackson, also remains to mourn his loss, and a son and daughter, Richard, 11 and Irene, 12. Mrs. Goo. W. Johnson of Robinson avenue, and Mrs. Mae Lynn, 303 Washington street, are sisters, and Louis Reinhardt of Dayton, another.

Mr. Reinhardt was for many years a valued and respected employee of the Herbold Furniture Co. Until failing health intervened, he was superintendent of the company's storage warehouse on Front street, and was then transferred to employment at the store on Gallia street.

The body was brought to the home last night, and funeral services will be conducted from the Reinhardt home Monday afternoon with Rev. W. H. Smith of Trinity church in charge.

Services will be at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Greenlawn.

Kahmar Funeral

The remains of Mrs. H. B. Kahmar, who died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. C. E. Campbell, Seabreeze, Fla., Wednesday of heart trouble, are expected to arrive in Portsmouth Saturday or early Sunday. A son, John Kahmar, went to Cincinnati today to meet the relatives accompanying the body.

On arrival here the remains will be removed to the home of Reinhardt, 1625 Campbell avenue, where funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. W. H. Gleiser, pastor of First Presbyterian church in charge. Burial will be in Greenlawn.

Harry Reinhardt

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Harris, who died Thursday afternoon, were held from the home of her grandson, William S. Harris, 634 Fourth street, last night with Rev. William H. Gleiser, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in charge. The remains were taken to Mrs. Harris' old home at Niles, O., today, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William S. Harris. Funeral services will be conducted at Niles Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. W. H. Hudnut, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Youngstown, who Mrs. Harris formerly attended, in charge. The remains will be laid to rest in the family mausoleum at Niles.

NOTICE!

To Gas Consumers supplied from main on Scioto Trail, north of Bertha, which includes Twenty-eighth street, Brant and Boulevard.

The Underground Construction Company have a contract with the City of Portsmouth to build a main sewer from the city limits south of Eighteenth street, and are now using a steam shovel digging an excavation in some places fifteen feet deep. Our main comes in the center of this trench, and is being moved as rapidly as possible, consistent with giving all consumers uninterrupted service. An accident to the main, caused by the steam shovel hooking into same may necessitate shutting off the supply in territory referred to above, temporarily. In this event, you will be advised before the gas is turned on again, so the valves on your appliances can all be closed off, avoiding any accidents. Nothing will be left undone to safeguard our patrons' interest, and we hope that no shut down will be necessary.

Value of Insurance Is Stressed By J. L. Shuff, Speaking to Local Club

Nearly a hundred members of the local needs increase, and such a fund can be established to see that a college education is provided.

Mr. Shuff named Russell Sage as the greatest financier of the age, from his standpoint of stability, reliability, and lack of the gambling element.

"Insurance is the high scientific program of finance known in the world," said Mr. Shuff, and quoted statistics showing that no one has lost a cent through the failure of old life insurance companies since 1875.

"Insurance is a practical, scientific, and sentimental proposition. During the world war nine million souls were lost, and those nine million had earning power. The world's earning power consequently faced the possibility of bankruptcy, and some means must be found to hedge this. Insurance pointed out the way."

The speaker quoted statistics showing that out of 100 men selected at the age of 25, but one is wealthy at the age of 65; two are comfortably well off; to have an income sufficient for sustenance, and 82 have not a dollar. Mr. Shuff came to address the New Century Club at the suggestion of the general federation of women's clubs which includes the question of insurance as a part of its program for the study of home economics. Mrs. Howard Sellars of the New Century Club is chairman of the home economics department of the southern Ohio district, and introduced the speaker of the afternoon.

Mr. Shuff spoke here several years ago and was so popular in Portsmouth. He met a number of local business men while here and thoroughly enjoyed his visit in the Peerless City. Portsmouth is expanding rapidly and I am glad to see it as our citizens are progressive and wide-awake," Mr. Shuff said.

Following Mr. Shuff's address a brief musical program was given by the quartet composed of Mrs. Pearl Sibley, Mrs. D. J. Buelzler, Mrs. Harry Bush and Mrs. Charles Stock, accompanied by Mrs. Lucien Doty.

Chinnville Marshal Dies From Bullet From His Own Gun Dropped While Loading Ties

Chester Hall, Marshal of Chinnville, Ky., was fatally wounded by a bullet from his own gun yesterday while engaged in loading cartridges at the plant of the American Carrying Company. He was struck in the chest and died fifteen minutes later while being led to his home nearby.

The victim, who has resided in Chinnville for the past three years, and who had been marshal for many months past, was working loading ties and was in the act of lifting one when his gun fell from his pocket and exploded.

The bullet entered the left chest and passed through the lung. Hall lived at Chinnville with his wife and three children and was known to practically every residence in the village. He and his wife moved there from Moorehead, Ky., and the body will be taken to the latter city for burial.

Besides his wife and children the deceased is survived by his mother at Moorehead.

School Board Wrestling With Plans To Keep Schools Open During April and May

Flying the banner of financial distress the city board of education met Friday and discussed ways and means to extricate itself from financial difficulties or to put it more plainly to keep the schools operated on a normal basis during April and May.

Last night at the regular meeting of the Board it was found that only $5,041.53 remains in the contingent fund without all bills being paid. Normal drain on this fund from janitors' payroll alone is about $3,000 a month, so that there is outstanding in the fund, less than enough to pay expenses of keeping the city schools open during April and May. According to Clerk William C. Hazelbeck, only about $2,000 is available for transfer to the fund a proceeding which must be instituted in Common Pleas Court. Outstanding against the contingent fund are bills amounting to about $2,000, it was figured at the meeting, payment of which was postponed until means are guaranteed of keeping the schools open for the remainder of the term ending in June.

The proposed action of putting sinking fund levies outside the tax limitation which is to be acted upon by voters at the primary of April 29, will not benefit the contingent fund. If the proposal is approved, it will enable the board to sell the remaining almost $114,000 worth of bonds of a total of $183,913.71 issued to retire floating indebtedness of the board. None of this money is available to the contingent fund, however.

There is money enough in other than the contingent funds to meet the normal demands they were created to satisfy, until the close of the school term, it is believed. Shutting down of the schools would effect no saving in other than contingent funds, however, as the teachers are under contract and could hold the board to payment of their salaries for the full term, it is said. Length of the remaining school term may therefore be governed practically by how long the board can eke out the slim balance of the contingent fund.

Supt. Frank Appel, while absent from last night's meeting, initiated movement to prevent repetition of the situation when on his behalf an estimate he had prepared was submitted tabulating probable teachers' payroll amounts for the next school years. His estimate was $244,000. The budget will be arranged to provide this amount and other estimates will be obtained.

Clerk Hazelbeck submitted a tabulated report on the bonded indebtedness of the board, which showed it to be $1,431,000, of which $71,500 was assumed when the Newville schools were incorporated in the city system.

Necessity for sinking fund provision more adequate than the board now has at its disposal, was shown by the tabulated report. Banks now insist, according to Mr. Hazelbeck, that enough sinking fund be provided to not only retire outstanding debts but lay aside funds for interest and retirement of future accruing bonds. One of the biggest issues outstanding, the $400,000 for additions to and furnishing the High school and Lincoln buildings, does not begin to retire until 1941. Funds not now available, must be set aside, the banks demand, to retire this and other long term issues when they become due. In the meanwhile, bond payments to be met during the next ten years total $170,000, as follows:

1925	47,000
1926	47,500
1927	61,000
1928	57,000
1929	56,500
1930	56,500
1931	56,500
1932	28,500
1933	36,500

Discussion of the situation in which the board now finds itself, was the principal matter before members last night. Only pressing accounts were settled, about $2,000 in bills being laid aside, including premium for just renewal of fire insurance policies on a number of the buildings.

Coolidge

legislative opinion of vital matters concerning the whole government are asked almost daily of the Department of Justice.

Mr. Daugherty's retirement was urged many weeks ago by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican leader, on the ground that the country must have confidence in the Department of Justice and would not feel that confidence if the conduct of the Attorney General himself were under investigation.

From all parts of the country letters have been coming telling the administration that every day Harry Daugherty stayed in the cabinet the Democrats were making votes and that Mr. Coolidge's strength was diminishing. Mr. Daugherty is a forceful personality. He is one of the "wheel horses" of the Republican party. He is influential in other parties. He was instrumental in having Warren Harding nominated to the Presidency. Such a man wasn't easy to eliminate and Mr. Coolidge's New England conscience battled hard with the expediencies of pre-conviction policies.

Today the friends of the President were pointing to his action as a sign of the real Coolidge who dared to fly in the face of the party zealots. It is an act of repudiation of one of the original Harding men which will, no doubt, cause considerable resentment in the Republican ranks but the losses may be offset by the gains and Mr. Coolidge's friends are supremely confident that "on the day after the defeat in South Dakota, his chiefest has expressed himself most firmly for clean government.

The incident is now without its tragic aspects. Harry Daugherty is a likable individual who has many friends in official life, friends devoted to him and believing in his integrity. When the investigation is completed, they contend it will be found that he was a victim not of personal greed but of eagerness to serve his friends. To their impositions he gave ear.

Life in Washington has never been happier for Harry Daugherty. He carried from the beginning a load of responsibility. He felt he was responsible for Harding's nomination and for his success in office. He hoped for a second term for Mr. Harding, he saw only the opposition of La Follette as a factor. His appointment as Attorney General was the subject of criticism but Mr. Harding felt that to do otherwise would be an act of ingratitude on his part. There were those who counselled Harry Daugherty not to accept on the ground that he had been so active in politics that they would not be the necessary confidence in his administration or the Department of Justice.

Of home life, Harry Daugherty had none. His wife has been an invalid throughout the time the husband has been wrestling with the multiples problems of the Department of Justice.

Mr. Daugherty's own health has broken down several times, the owing to his portfolio largely in defiance to his enemies. He would have retired long ago but for a feeling that he would be confessing defeat. He accepts Mr. Coolidge's decision as inevitable but with a heavy heart and a feeling of disappointment that the new President did not stick to him in a fight waged, as he sees it, not against an individual, but the entire cabinet and the Republican party. Mr. Daugherty, the President, thinks, is looking at the issues from too narrow a viewpoint. And Mr. Coolidge has a right too, to think of the fortunes of the Republican party as interwoven with his own political fortunes for he has been told that today he is stronger than the Republican party in Congress and that in his record alone lies the chance for a continuation in power.

Galvin will visit the farms of fruit growers of this county for an observation tour to study and outline plans for control and eradication of diseases affecting small fruits, especially strawberry and raspberry.

Price declines during the past month bring the farm price of grains and livestock below the prices which prevailed a year ago, according to the March State-Federal price report of Statistical West.

The average corn price is 75 cents per bushel or 1 cent below last year. The wheat price of $1.65 a bushel is 21 cents below last year. Oats average 47 cents, which is 1 cent above last year. Rye is 9 cents under last year's price.

The hog price for the state averages $7.05 and this is $1.01 less than a year ago. The feeder hog price is about $1.65 below March, 1923. The farm price for beef cattle averages 10 cents under last year and now stands at $6.11 a hundred pounds. Prices for sheep and lambs are something like 25 cents under the prevailing prices for last March.

The state average egg price of 21 cents a dozen is 2 cents less than farm price received last year at this time. Poultry prices are 1 cent under last year. The state average milk price is slightly below a year ago, but prices are higher than last year.

Farm prices are slightly more than last month and from $8 to $9 above the prices of last year.

PILES Treated Without Surgery

A simple case of PILES is considered by most people as a matter of no more concern than the spills of Protruding, bleeding, pain and annoyance which they suffer in the early stage. Little do they realize the terrible condition into which PILES frequently develop, and the terrible nerve waste that goes on all the time due to the strain on the Sympathetic Nerve System.

Thousands of people are far from being up to the standard either in body or mind, simply because of the constant annoyance and irritation of the rectum. This need not be so if the proper treatment were used in the right time, in the right way.

The wisdom of a rational, scientific, non-surgical treatment has been fully demonstrated and has long since passed the experimental stage. Why suffer the tortures of a surgical operation, when you can be successfully treated without it or loss of time? So many have taken advantage of my previous trips to Portsmouth and the results have been so gratifying, that I have decided to make weekly trips for a while so they can get the full benefit of this treatment.

I will be at the Washington Hotel, Monday, March 31st where I will be glad to give you a free examination and tell you exactly what can be done in your case.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED. Bring your family physician with you if you wish.

Daugherty Scores Opponents

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 29.—(By The A. P.)—Besieged by newspapermen ever since his arrival here at 5:40 o'clock this evening, former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty decided to issue a formal statement in connection with his resignation this evening.

As he handed a sheet of hotel stationery upon which he had scrawled a few lines to a group of insistent reporters, he said: "Well, boys, I hope I'll let alone for a while now."

The statement follows:

"I know nothing further to say at this time or while here as far as I know except to take advantage of this, my first opportunity, to advise the country that the lies told by treacherous, scoundrel, witness as to financial, disgraceful doings and improper associations on my part will not be lectured.

Plain Lies, He Says

"They are just plain lies presented to them to create prejudice. Considering that the committee is without legal authority to make inquiry into any subject, prosecution for perjury would be futile. My friends know full well the condition of life I have lived."

After issuing the statement, Mr. Daugherty left the hotel for a walk along the board walk. He took the elevator to the street floor, evidently wishing to avoid walking through the crowded lobby, where his arrival had created a stir earlier in the evening.

"SHE MUST BE BOBBED TO BE QUEEN." This was the edict of the male students of San Jose (Calif.) State Teachers' College when it came time to select the ruler for the annual Saratoga Blossom Festival. Miss Evelyn Allen, shown here, answered that requirement and all the others, and consequently won in a walk.

SHE WAS ACCLAIMED, after a two-year contest, the loveliest woman of Japan. Descendant of a Japanese family eight centuries old, she is entitled to wear the Temple Crest with her ceremonial robes. Her name now is Mrs. Thaig O'Conroy, for she recently married a British naval officer.

THE RED CROSS DOG is the name given this statue by Frederick G. R. Roth. It symbolizes the gallantry and devotion to duty displayed by the army dogs in the World War. The sculpture recently won the Speyer Memorial prize of $300 in New York.

WHITE AS SNOW AND PROUD as a peacock, is this Mother Spitz. Why shouldn't she be, with her family of six lusty, handsome pups? Didn't they win a prize in a dog show recently held at Sacramento, Calif.? They certainly did.

INTRODUCING Mrs. E. H. Vare of Pennsylvania. Her husband, Senator Vare, a member of the state legislature, died and she was named to succeed him in the first Pennsylvania district. If elected, she will be the first woman to hold such office in that state.

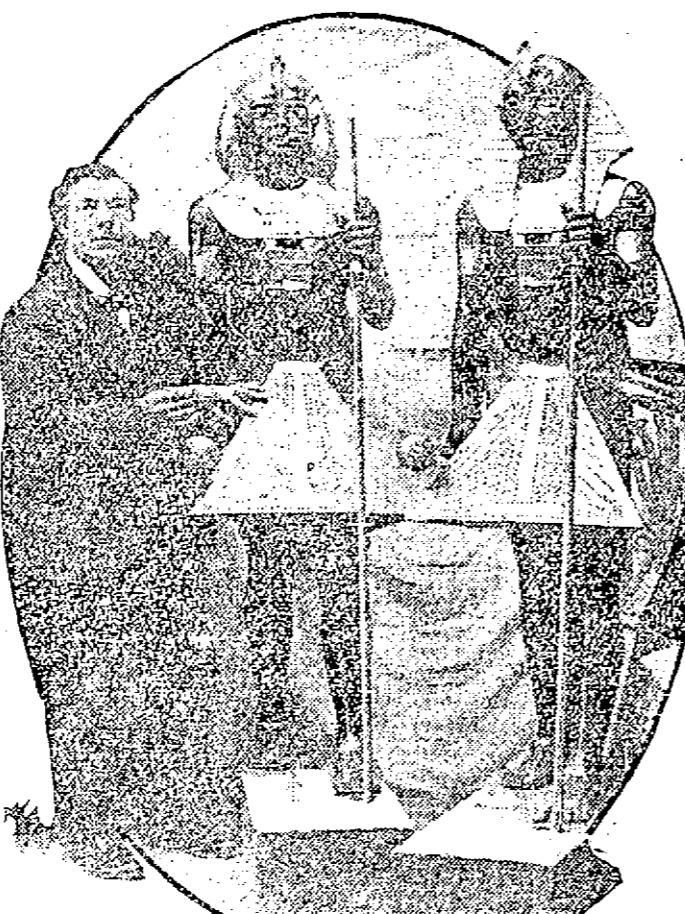

THE ORIGINAL RADIO GIRL is what they call her. She is Miss Vaughan de Leath of New York, now appearing in one of David Belasco's productions. She has the distinction of being the first woman to direct and manage a broadcasting station.

GRANDPA, THE OLDEST LIVE TURTLE known, has passed his three hundredth year and still feels as spry as a two-year-old. Here he is shown getting some of his daily visitors from Keeper James Laaney. Grandpa resides at the Bronx Zoo, New York.

VENUS (RIGHT) AND MONGA (left) are the two principal pets of Dr. G. W. Nelson, Oaldard, Calif., animal doctor. Venus is a Panama king parrot with a history, having gone through a shipwreck off the South American coast. Monga is a cockatoo of a species very rare in the United States. Both are great conversationalists.

ANCIENT EGYPT IN ENGLAND. These are exact reproductions of art treasures found in the tomb of King Tut-ankh-amen and are being constructed by W. Amonter (shown here), well-known sculptor and architect of London. They will be displayed at the Empire Exhibition at Wembley, England, this summer.

THE GIRLS ARE INDULGING IN A LITTLE GAME OF POKER. But they are perfectly safe from the police force of Miami, Fla. The beach discloses the approach of policemen two blocks away, the cards and chips can be buried in the sand and the players themselves can take to the water in less than no time if they sight a blue coat.

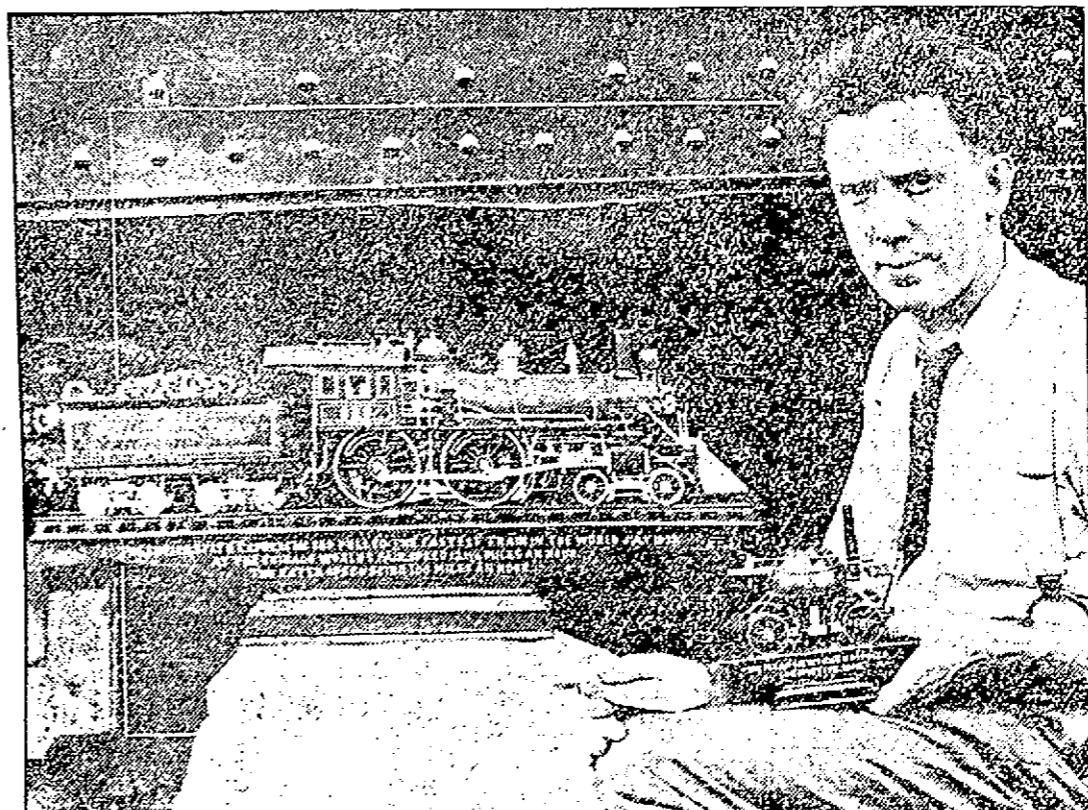

DON'T LET YOUR young bride take an ocean trip just before the wedding, advises Mrs. Ruth Butland, 26, of Los Angeles. Her fiance, a 65-year-old pilot on the Yangtze river, China, sent for her recently via trans-Pacific liner. She had such a good time aboard that she took the next ship home, leaving her hubby after a nine days' honeymoon.

HE'S MAYOR OF Houston, Tex., but here he looks more like a cowboy. Oscar Holcombe is his name. The glad rags were donned in honor of the recent convention of the Texas Cattlemen's Association in Houston. Every official in town had to wear 'em.

ISN'T THIS THE LIMIT—to tantalize envious city folk who have to fish for dollars instead of trout? This appetizing catch, with bacon on the side, makes a tasty breakfast for these two fly casters of San Bernardino, Calif., mountain streams.

EXACT MODELS OF FAMOUS LOCOMOTIVES. This is Ernest Warther of Dover, O., who is known throughout the country for his marvelously carved models of historic American locomotives. He carves from wood. In a recent exhibition he showed models dating all the way from the embryonic "choo-choo" of 1860 to the latest great monsters of the rail.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Last summer I covered my leather chairs with white quilt and when I took it off the quilt got to the leather and I wish you could see them now! Will you tell me what will take it off and also what will prevent leather chairs from sticking in the good, old summer time? Also have you a recipe for mayonnaise dressing made with canned milk?

—TIMES READER.

For your leather chairs you might use sweet milk, furniture polish or vaseline. I should think a damp cloth or sponge would also remove the stain. All leather does not stick, and if you use the kind that does, I suppose you will have to use pads or cushions on them. If you like the taste of canned milk you can substitute that in any recipe that calls for sweet milk. If necessary it can be diluted.

Dear Dolly—I am married in June and I would like to know what would make a suitable dress to get married in? I meant material, color, etc. which would cost about $15 or not more than $20. Also what denomination is St. Paul's church in Newport, Kentucky?

—BLACK HEAD.

I will know where and when you are going to be married before I can give an intelligent answer. Ordinarily, I would suggest a white dress, but if you are to be married early, and get immediately on a wedding trip, I would suggest dark silk dress or a suit. If you are to be married at the time of the officiating minister, or if you are planning to go away to be married, I would also suggest a dark dress or suit. St. Paul's is an Episcopal church and is located on the corner of Eighth and York streets, Newport, Kentucky.

Dear Dolly—I am a married woman 26 and have two small children, poly, my husband does not seem to care anything for me and he does not give me enough money to live on. He works good, and makes good wages, but after he pays the grocery bill he spends the rest of his money foolishly. He comes home, eats his supper, clean up and away he goes for a good time. Myself and children do not have enough clothes to clean up in. He never gives me a good word and if I ask him to take me to a picture show or anywhere else to just nearly has a fit. My house is always clean and I have his meals ready on time. If I ask him to stay in with baby and me he raves on and sometimes he does not get in until 3:30 in the morning. Dolly, do you think that a man with a family has any business staying out until that hour? I will thank you if you will tell me how I can get some money out of my husband.

—WORRIED WIFE.

Since he does not object to paying the grocery bill, why not have your grocery man advance you the cash, and add it to your bill? If you weren't so easy, instead of whining around and asking him to take you places, just pick up and go wherever and whenever you want to go, regardless of what he thinks about it. You can take the children with you in the day time and also at night, if you get in at a reasonable hour. When you can't get out, have your friends come in and visit with you. Don't sit and look at four walls all day, just to please your husband.

Dear Dolly—I would like for you to

Sunday School Class To Parade Sunday

All members and friends of the First Baptist Philadelphians are requested to meet tomorrow morning at 8:30 on the esplanade, Gallia and Chillicothe streets, from which place they will march to the First Baptist church, Gallia and Valley streets. Permission to this meeting has kindly been granted by Mayor Calvert.

The Philadelphians and Barbers classes of the church have been in a contest for some time, and the Philadelphians have been in the lead for several weeks, but the boys got busy and hauled them in from every nook and corner last Sunday and now they are seven miles in the lead. Both classes will reach the goal next Sunday as they only have 26 and 33 miles farther to go but the bonus will be awarded to the one having the most miles.

50 girls, the Philadelphians class, ask you to heed their call and come out 50 strong, and help put us over the top. All who are not attending Bible School elsewhere are urged to meet at the esplanade at 8:30 if it does not rain, or at the church at 9 o'clock, rain or shine.

Sciotoville Christian Church Sets 1000 as Goal for Easter

It looks like a pretty high task to set for a small congregation, said Charles Johnson, one of the active workers among the men, "but we will be able to put it over because there is not one who is not enthusiastic over the prospect of moving into the new church home. When considered in the light of past performances, it looks as if Sciotoville Christian looks school and church would be able to have their coveted thousand before Easter, judging by the way they have worked for the erection of their new building which is to be dedicated for worship on April 6th. The machinery is being oiled and will be in readiness to start off with a bang on the first Sunday in April.

Rev. U. S. Pinson Ordained

Friday, March 28, at 2:00 p. m. pastors and delegates from several of the Baptist churches of the Portsmouth Association met at the Riverview Baptist church on Huntington's Hill, on which Rev. Bro. Pinson has been pastor for some time, and examined him as to his Christian experience, call to the ministry and doctrinal belief. Bro. Pinson passed a very satisfactory examination, and the Council unanimously voted to retain him. The ordination service was held at 7:00 p. m. Rev. W. H. Weststreet preached the ordination sermon. Rev. H. E. Ketcham gave charge to both candidate and church. Rev. Freeman Chase presented the Bible, a gift from the church, and he also offered the ordination prayer. The Riverview church is a growing church. They have a Sunday School of nearly 100 and are planning on building a suitable building. Here is a place for those who like to use their money at home.

Modern Heathenism

Sunday night at the Evangelistic services at the First U. B. church, corner Seventh and Gay streets, the special subject will be Modern Heathenism. In the discussion of this subject conditions that existed thousands of years ago will be compared to present day conditions and tendencies. A marked parallelism will be drawn. The subject will be discussed at the seven o'clock service in the evening. The music will be especially attractive to those who enjoy the modern revival hymn and a Male Quartette will render a special gospel selection, in addition to the regular anthem by the choir.

Hold Conference

Presbyterian pastors and evangelists in this district of Portsmouth Presbytery met at the Mary Louise yesterday for a conference preceding the closing three services of the two weeks revival series.

Plans for the closing meetings were discussed, and plans for general evangelistic work throughout the church were taken up.

Attending the meeting were Rev.

REVIVAL MEETINGS

Central Presbyterian

"The gospel way of dealing with sin" was the subject of Rev. H. A. White at the Central Presbyterian church last night.

"Sin," said Dr. White, "is universal. It reaches into the depths of every man's heart, and penetrates into the innermost recesses of every human life. Yet we do not appreciate its deadliness; nor its sinfulness; nor its deceitfulness. The 'wages of sin is death' and it matters not whether you are a part-time sinner or work at it over time, you reap the wages, just the same. You may be president or office boy—it makes no difference."

"Sin is not a pimple on the skin; it is not a blemish of the heart. Sin is spiritual disease. Sin is offense against God; against love; against our own nature. Sin separates us from God and from our fellow men."

"What is the remedy for sin?

"There is nothing we can do to cure it. So far as human power is concerned, sin is incurable. No power we possess can suffice or satisfy the demands of justice.

"Nothing will suffice save the Divine Power manifested on the cross."

Second Presbyterian

Despite inclement weather, Second church showed its fine spirit with a large attendance at last night's evangelistic service, and Dr. Francis M. Fox, Philadelphia minister who has been conducting the series, delivered a message of power and interest.

Dr. Fox's messages have appeal and force, and growing crowds attest to his ability as a preacher. He stresses the note of personal consecration for service, and holds the attention of his congregation throughout the service.

services Sunday, beginning with the Sunday School in the morning, and continuing throughout the day.

First Presbyterian

"Excuses" were shown in the full light of their trifling existence last night at the First Presbyterian church when Rev. Dr. Warren J. Conard spoke on "Excuses which do not excuse," delivering a message especially adapted to young people. The young people of the congregation attended the service in large numbers.

The two weeks services at First church will close Sunday, and large audiences are expected. Last night's attendance was splendid, despite the rain, and enthusiasm ran high.

The pastor, Rev. William H. Gleiser, last night expressed the opinion that Sunday would find First church crowded at all services, and growing crowds throughout the two weeks campaign bear out this prediction.

A number of accessions to the church will result from the two weeks campaign.

Another high stage in the Ohio river is expected within the next few days as a result of the general hard rain that fell Friday afternoon and evening and all night. Although River Forecaster W. C. Deveraux, Cincinnati, has not made a statement as to what stage may be expected here, local citizens are of the opinion that the crest will be between 35 and 40 feet. West Side farmers arriving in the city Saturday, on learning the rain was general in the Scioto valley, said that the present rise probably would not over the Y road once more this season.

A telegram from Columbus this morning was as follows:

"Heavy rains have fallen during the past 24 hours over the entire Scioto valley and river is now, or fast approaching a flood stage at many places. There will be considerable flooding of lowlands during next day or two along entire river valley."

The heavy rainfall in the Scioto valley is sure to cause a big river at this point, the high waters from points east of here on the Ohio being held by the running out of the flood waters of the Scioto. Prospects of fair and colder weather indicates the present rise will be short lived.

The Ohio river registered a stage of 30.3 feet here at 7 a. m. It's morning and continued to climb at a rapid rate throughout the day here and at all points from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati.

The rainfall here during the 24-hour period ending this morning amounted to 1.02 inches but the fall was heaviest at Zanesville, where 2.18 inches was recorded, while in the Kalmiopsis, Big Sandy and Pittsburgh regions the fall averaged about one inch, which caused the Muskingum, Allegheny, Monongahela, Kanawha, Big Sandy and other tributaries, which were reported rising.

The Muskingum at Zanesville was only 4 feet under the flood stage.

Rainfall reported from points east of Portsmouth last night was as follows: Pittsburgh, 3.6 inches; Wheeling, 5.8; Parkersburg, 9.8; Bradford, Va., on New river, 1.26; Charleston, W. Va., on Great Kanawha river, 7.4; Point Pleasant, 3.0; Huntington, 1.12; Williamson, on Teays Fork, 2.6; Pikeville, Ky., on Levisa Fork, 2.6; and Ashland, 2.0.

All the creeks in the county were reported rising rapidly today as a result of the heavy rainfall last night. At times the rain came down in torrents and during the early hours of the morning was accompanied by a high wind, typical of March.

EXIT, MR. DAUGHERTY

AND so the end has come. Attorney General Harry Daugherty has resigned. He resigned, not at the hint, but at the exact request of the President. Resigned while under the darkest clouds of suspicion. Resigned while the air was filled with scandal that led to his very doorstep. Resigned, full of fight as ever, but because he could not help himself. The canny New Englander in the White House came to see that his chances for nomination and election were endangered by his retention of Daugherty, and Daugherty is thrown to the dogs. The inquiry into the conduct of his office and into his personal conduct will worry along. He will put up some sort of a defense, but it will be as if Hamer had departed.

Daugherty out of office is not the same as Daugherty in office. And then Daugherty will come back to Ohio and go his way, a figure to be gaped at, to be talked about, to be whispered about behind his back. The future does not hold out much that is attractive for him. But this is the way of the world. You must pay and pay and pay for stepping aside from the well defined paths.

But when all is said, one wonders why Daugherty did not step aside and retire when Harding died. He certainly knew what had been going on, even if he were not concerned personally. Ill health, coupled with the shock of his chief's death, gave him every excuse to retire. Had he done so chances are remote indeed that there would ever have been any inquiry into his office or into the affairs of his intimates. Some ill-fated genius seemed to dictate his course and he insisted on staying in office to his utter ruin, so far as standing in the eyes of the public is concerned. When the clouds are darkest he is booted out of office and finis written to his wrecked political career.

It is a sad ending to what might have been a brilliant and useful service. We are sorry.

THE HOME TOWN PAPER

THE old home town paper—the last link that binds you to the home of childhood. And when you are fifty the only thing you can find in it to interest you is the obituary column. There you find the names with which you are familiar, and there only do you find them. It always makes us feel sad when our home town paper comes to us each week. We always pause and stare into vacancy a bit before we tear off the wrapper. We wonder who has felt the icy touch of death in the meantime, upon whose coffin the crows have fallen during the past seven days. In a moment we jerk the paper open, read the obituary column, memory all the while holding full sway in our thoughts. And then we toss the paper into the waste basket and take up life's work once more.

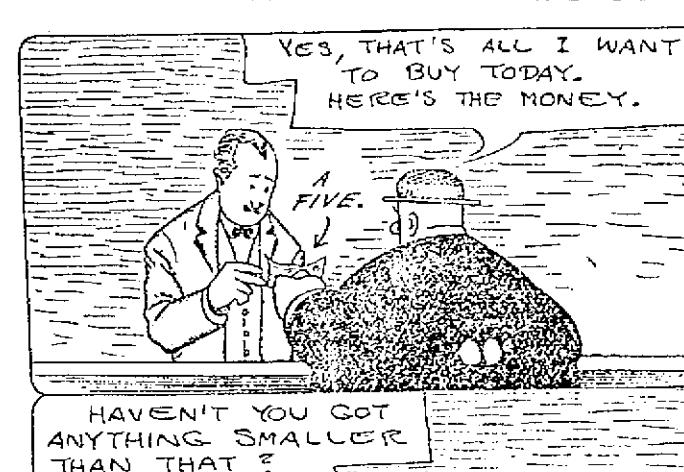

When you are out driving just go down to the Scioto river bridge and see how much better it is in every way with the oil station and houses that encroached upon the roadway, torn away. It is a wonderful improvement.

Editor Johnny Corns, of the Ironton Register, orates two columns worth and hops all over poor old Charlie Taft, of the Times-Star because the T-S advocates abolishment of the primary and return to the convention system. Cheer up, John. The primary, like prohibition, is here to stay. Also there is a lot in the way it is administered, in both cases, that furnishes cause for criticism. These evils will be cured. And that will be all there is to it.

It is good news to know that a program of improvement for the streets traversed by the Street Railway Company has been agreed upon by council and representatives of the company. We do not expect it all to be done at once. That would be burdensome on all concerned. But there should be no delay in making a start. And when Chillicothe street comes to be taken up, the idea of widening the street should receive serious consideration. It can be done without much sacrifice and the benefits would be incalculable.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

It is a great treat to hear a lover of nature like Mr. Arthur Harper talk as he talked to the Rotary Club Thursday night. Here is a man who not only knows nature but a man who can picture his thoughts in beautiful, picturesque English. One feels better, one feels more in tune with the Creator's scheme of things, after such an address. We hope Mr. Harper will bring his message to other societies and meetings here in the days to come. For he has a worth-while message and he tells it well.

Widening of the main thoroughfare in Sciotoville is one of the pressing needs of the day. If the city cannot pave it this year, it should at least make the space on the sides of the brick passable. Graveling and rolling it, would help temporarily, and relieve the dangerous congestion of the street.

One job worse than being a wife is being a central and answering the blarney phone all day long.

Most of us get wrinkles worrying over things that never happen or that have happened already.

Your lot could be worse. In Battle Creek, Mich., a teacher has taught geometry for 50 years.

A philosopher is one who is surprised when he catches any fish instead of disappointed when he doesn't.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY
BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 29—The little villages within a stone's throw of New York reveal more dyed-in-the-wool provincialism than towns in outposts far from railroads. Just recently some village bremen of Darby, Ct., a short motor ride from New York, were arrested for incendiaries.

They set fire to many houses just to "go to fires" and use their new apparatus. Long Island is dotted with villages that show more bucolic traits. Many of them are still going in for stereotyped lectures and pitching horse shoes on the Main street.

The villagers fail to get any stimulus from close contact with the hurly-burly of the metropolis. Indeed the proximity seems to draw them into their shells. There is a sign in front of a grocery store down there reading: "We know you're from New York, so don't pull any city jokes."

The collapsible ear muffs, moonshines, toad shoes and one-horse shay are still to be seen. There are many of these folk who come to New York but once a year and there are many more who have never been here at all. They call the pilgrimage "coming to town."

There is a village hotel in a wide place in the road" near Bay-side where chickens with about the office and an old fashioned bitching track graces the front. The propriet-

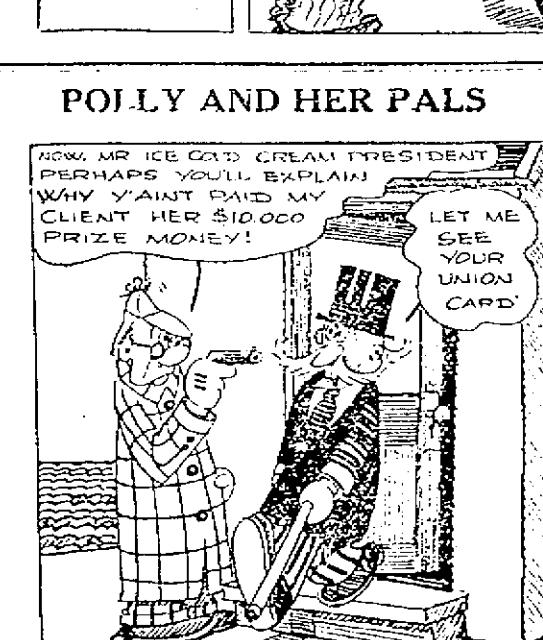

I saw a display of ambassadortemper in my barber shop the other day. The ambassador stepped quickly into the room for "shave and shampoo." There was a vacant chair but the barber explained a regular customer had phoned to be there in two minutes. "But I'm here now," snapped the ambassador. But the barber was adamant. (Wherever did I get that word?) So the official stampeded in a high dudgeon, hissed, "I had supposed the chief requisite of the diplomat was to retain his temper in every situation."

Park Row has myriad one flight up clothing parlors and down-stairs show shops. Their patronage is solicited chiefly by bummer men who stand out in front. Thus "Sam's Snappy Clothes Shop" heralds kampus kuts for $26.50 and "George's Shoe Saloon" the nifty last for $4.50. The salesmen are paid a percentage on their sales and no fixed salary. If a patron enters without buying they will follow close to the sidewalk. They beg, entice and sometimes threaten. There was one who was shaking and sputtering on the curb to a lagging prospect the other day. "The last guy who didn't take my advice about an overcoat," he said, "went home in the cold and caught pneumonia and he's deadler than a doornail right now. Take this garment or leave it—but if you even don't blame me," he said. Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Some folks are all right after we spend a lot of time on 'em, but there's too many other things to entitle besides people. We used to know where to locate a fellow, but 'd day we have to begin at th' livery stable an' look all over town, an' maybe eat in society.

Noted Lecturer at Eastland Sunday

Local Bible Students consider themselves fortunate in having been invited to see A. H. MacMillan of Brooklyn, N. Y., to deliver one of his world famous lectures here Sunday evening. The subject announced is "Messianic Kingdom At Hand," and the lecture will begin promptly at 7:30.

Mr. MacMillan is said to be an orator of special note and has delivered lectures on four continents. His services are probably in greater demand than those of any other Bible lecturer on the American platform.

As usual with Bible Students' lectures, all expenses incident to this lecture have been provided for in advance and the lecture will be entirely free, no admission being charged and no collection lifted.

Bennett Candidate For Commissioner

William Bennett, widely known Madison township farmer, has announced his intention to seek the Democratic nomination for county commissioner in the August primaries.

Mr. Bennett served two terms as commissioner and he will make the race on the record he established for honesty and efficiency while in office. He has many friends who will be glad to learn of his announced intention of seeking his party's endorsement for the office, which his friends say he filled so acceptably and with credit to himself and the county on the other occasion.

His friends feel that he will easily win the nomination and that he will be a formidable candidate to combat the enemy in November.

To Exchange Pulpits

A general exchange of pulpits by Ministers in the Portsmouth M. E. district has been arranged for tomorrow when the visiting minister will bring the World Service Service of Methodism.

At a district meeting held in Ironton February 21, this General Field Day was arranged for the work of arranging a schedule being left to a committee consisting of Rev. H. E. Bright, Rev. W. H. Smith and District Superintendent, J. B. Hawk.

Services will be held by the ministers, morning, afternoon and evening. J. H. Finney and Attorney W. L. Hostetter, of this city, are to assist the ministers. Rev. J. H. Finney will speak at Oak Hill in the morning and Firebrick in the afternoon. Attorney Hostetter will speak at Pine Street Church, Ironton, in the morning, and at Immanuel Church, Ironton, tomorrow night.

Rev. W. H. Smith will be at home at Trinity in the morning, at Black Fork in the afternoon, and at Oak Hill in the evening. Rev. H. E. Bright of Biglow, in the afternoon, and at Pikelton in the evening. Sargeants, afternoon, and Lanesville, evening. Rev. P. A. Gross of Manly, is to be at Hayfield, Franklin.

Rev. A. S. Davison of Pikelton, Minford, Blue Run, McDermon, O. E. Hall, Scioto, Bell, Pikelton; Rev. B. L. Holland of Minford, Valley Chapel, Scioto; Rev. G. H. Weaver of Lucasville; Rev. G. H. Political Meeting To Be Held Later

A political meeting scheduled to have taken place this afternoon in the assembly room of the Security Bank building, failed to materialize and will be held later. J. H. Bramstated. Other men who showed up for the meeting were John Simon of Wheelersburg and Frank Rickey of Duck Run.

"We will meet to select the best candidates in the field," Mr. Bram said. "We hope to have them appointed who will not be tainted with McCrackenism."
